In Connecticut last fall there were cast 165,000

votes. In the same state there are 331,061 persons who have deposits in savings banks—more than twice as many as the total number of voters. That is a picture of prosperity which will rapidly fade under the influence of Democratic Free-trade.

The winter seems to have an uncommonly stiff backbone.

Hawaii, with its balmy air and perennial flowers, may yet be one of the great American winter resorts.

Will Hill be the Calhoun of the incoming "Jacksonian" Administration? No doubt Cleveland would like to hang him.

The Populists in Kansas talk about planting guns around the State House. They ought to be at home talking about planting crops.

Mr. Cleveland may not have a Tiger, but he is, in the shape of clamorous Mugwumps, a very fine sample of famished British Lion.

If we assimilate Hawaii Mr. Cleveland will confer a great favor upon a long suffering people by making Skindint Holman Governor of the new territory and "Buck" Kilgore United States Marshal.

Uncle Sam should not attempt to stand up so straight as to lose his equilibrium. A narrow construction of the Monroe doctrine in the Hawaii case that would weaken the security of American commerce would be a violent distortion of that declaration.

Connecticut's report on savings banks comes along to emphasize that state's folly in giving its electoral vote to the Free-trade candidates. It shows that four out of every nine persons of all ages and conditions in the commonwealth have savings bank account. During 1902 the gain in total deposits was $8,104,509; in number of depositors, 13,136; and in average amount due each depositor, $9 18.

The St. John Telegraph declares in one column "that Canadians have no desire to insult the memory of their fathers by entering into a union with a Nation which drove them out and confiscated their property," and "that however honorable a thing it may be to be a citizen of the United States, and to be a citizen of the British Empire is still more desirable," and in the next column rallies the Ministerial party over the exodus of over 1,000,000 Canadians to the United States. The Telegraph should retire to a quiet corner and think.

The country is left hopelessly in the dark as regard the motive which inspired the legislative genius who has introduced in the Minnesota House a bill making the manufacture, sale or use of the hoppekrit a penal offense. It is possible that the question which confronts Minnesota is whether the crime lies in the feminine population must grow. The land of Ignatius Donnelly is proverbial for its occasional windstorms, and should any of its fairer denizens be caught by one of these atmospheric outbursts while clad in a crinoline the girl families in North Dakota and Manitoba would be instantly arrested and Minnesota be bereft of the redeeming portion of its population. From this point of view the bill against the hoppekrit is all right, and its author a far sighted statesman.

According to a precedent established in Louisville by the Employers' Liability Insurance Company, the life of a negro is worth only $100, while that of a horse is placed at $500. These are the sums awarded in the case of victims of the Louisville Electric Lighting Company.

FROM F. D. COURTNEY.

A Letter from a Former Well-Known Citizen of Maysville.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Peter D. Courtney, now of Columbia, Tenn., to a friend in this city.

February 24, 1893. Kind —: Your favor of January 17th reached me this morning, but not in Nashville. I left there the middle of December and pitched my tent in this city, which is some forty-seven miles from N. I passed through Frankton on my way here, and I see the battle-field of Columbia every day.

I received your paper (the enemy here the day before the battle of F., so you see I have plenty to remind me of the days when I chewed hard tacks and did my own owning. I have to smile when anyone asks me if I am my first visit to C., and I think nine out of ten set me down as an all round falsehood when I tell them I was at Mr. Hood's reception in '64. I have a serious notion of sending home for the family Bible to loan around with me to prove to folks that I will be as near as true.

We have a street car track with six cars on it, water-works with real river water, electric light and gas, the same old Courthouse of the war and about 6,000 inhabitants. Ask Colonel C.—if of the same ilk as the Columbus of '94. I forget to say that we have an Athletic Club with a well equipped gymnasium, of which I am instructor.

I received your paper (for which please accept thanks) with account of reunion November 30th, which I have pasted in my scrap-book for future reference, and regret that I was not there to put in my "holier with the other fellows." Tell old Burt that if I can the next reunion will bring me if I want to see him and all the rest of the heroes once more on this side of the Grand Good-bye.

I visited our Paul Sheridan No. 6, Tenn., last post-bank here just before I left N. I could not get there until late, but the boys saved me a plate of beans and a tinny cup of coffee. I ate and made up for some of the same that "Old Bart" did not give us in East Tennessee. More anon. Yours, P. D. COURTNEY.

A BAPTIST preacher at Hackensack, N. Y., claims he has discovered Heaven. It is not on the moon, nor yet on any of the planets of the solar system. It is just as far away as it is possible for him to locate it, namely, on the star Alcyone, the most conspicuous of the constellation Pleiades.

The Revision Committee, though composed of able gentlemen, does not appear to have before it the prospect of making very much of a reputation by the city and town charters which it has prepared, says The Courier-Journal. As it has disregarded many of the suggestions made by the towns themselves, though representatives appointed for the purpose, it has had no right to expect its work to be received uncomplainingly. The events may justify the wisdom of the commission, but at present there is a great deal of dissatisfaction over the proposed charters. This is the more pronounced because it is felt in some quarters that the commission failed to show proper consideration for the suggestions made by the joint committee of towns in each class, who might have been supposed to know something of the wants of their people.

Or, From Bedlam to Freedom—Lecture Saturday Night at Courthouse.

Dr. J. H. Harrison will lecture upon the above subject at Courthouse Saturday night. Seats free. No collection. The Blaze of Gold of Chicago, Ill., says of Dr. Harrison:

TO LECTURE IN KENTUCKY.

The Hon. John H. Harrison of Vincennes, Ind., a Keeley graduate and one of the ablest of the many able men in that state, is to deliver a series of lectures in Kentucky on the Keeley cure. The engagements already made for him cover a period of three months. He is a strategic, logical reasoner, a quick, ready speaker, and a genial, pleasant gentleman, who will make warm friends for the cause of practical temperance wherever he goes. We congratulate the people of Kentucky on their opportunity to enjoy Mr. Harrison's eloquence.

HON. WILLIAM V. ALLEN, Populist, was elected United States Senator by the Nebraska Legislature Tuesday. The new Senator was born in Ohio in 1847, and served in the Iowa regiment during the war. He has resided in Nebraska for nine years.

Two Weddings.

Two couples were united in marriage yesterday at the County Clerk's Office by Squire Jacob Miller.

Eddie Stickley and Miss Florence Oest, both of Clark county, were the first, and Herbert B. Sims of Danville, Ind., and Miss Mary L. Biehn of this county came soon after.

The State Flower.

The Kentucky State Board of World's Fair Commissioners was called upon some days ago to designate what flower Kentucky preferred as her emblem at the World's Fair.

The Commissioners decided to leave the selection entirely to the Woman's Suffrage Committee, who after a correspondence with Professor Gorman of the State College decided to adopt the Trumpet flower, (Trionia radicans). The selection is quite satisfactory, and Kentuckians who contemplate going to Chicago, to see the exposition of their native state, Kentucky is among the earliest states to make a decision in this matter.

The New Charters.

The Revision Committee, though composed of able gentlemen, does not appear to have before it the prospect of making very much of a reputation by the city and town charters which it has prepared, says The Courier-Journal. As it has disregarded many of the suggestions made by the towns themselves, though representatives appointed for the purpose, it has had no right to expect its work to be received uncomplainingly. The events may justify the wisdom of the commission, but at present there is a great deal of dissatisfaction over the proposed charters. This is the more pronounced because it is felt in some quarters that the commission failed to show proper consideration for the suggestions made by the joint committee of towns in each class, who might have been supposed to know something of the wants of their people.

The last report of the Patent Office shows the beneficial influence of Protection upon the inventive genius of the American people. It is not contended that a Tariff on imports creates brain in the head of the inventor; it stimulates and extends the use of mechanical appliances. If we had remained in the condition devoted for us by England and were a purely agricultural people very few of the wonderful inventions which have multiplied production and made the name of Yankee synonymous with mechanical ingenuity throughout the earth would have been the fruit.

Of course, the Free-trade party pronounces this view as purely fanciful. Fortunately, it stands on an unshakable fact. Take, for instance, the Free-trade period before the war. Invention then was at a low ebb. Manufacturers languished, and the incentive to invention was far less than it has been since the inauguration of Protection put new life into all mechanical pursuits. From 1845 to 1860, the entire fourteen years of Revenue Tariff, the total number of patents granted was only 25,234, an average of 1,874 a year for the period. Last year, after thirty-two years of consistent Protection, the Patent Office granted 13,437 patents in America. Some, nearly as many as were granted in the whole Free-trade period.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE once said that the greatest wrong inflicted upon the colonies by Great Britain was the smothering of the inventive genius of the people by her prohibitions against manufacturers through the years of their dependence upon the English crown. Invention can only flourish in a country whose manufacturing industries are important and prosperous.

THE New York Press says that 30 per cent. of Kentucky is covered with forest and the rest is covered by Henry W. TROSBY. As to the 30 per cent. part, that's all right. And there is a little truth in the HENRY WATERBURY part; but there is a MANSIEY or soft speak that covers a chair in the southeastern corner of The Bulletin office in this city.

George Eliot is pre-eminently the woman writer of the age. Gifted with a mind almost masculine in its vigor and power, yet retaining the womanliness which, added to her literary strength, has made her works worthy the highest place accorded to her sex in the world of letters.

"Middlemarch," "The Mill on the Floss," "Felix Holt," "Daniel Deronda," "Romola," and "Clerical Life" are household words among the educated of the land, and steadily and surely are becoming better and better known even in the cottage of the laborer. These works are now placed before the public in most attractive form and our special offer places them within the reach of all.
